Boiron - Arnica 30C

Product ID: 18839

Muscle Aches, Stiffness, Bruises and Swelling:

Commonly known as the Mountain Daisy, Arnica montana's healing properties were first recognized in the 16th century. In the French Alps where Arnica grows, mountain climbers would chew the fresh plant to relieve sore muscles and bruises from falls. Plastic surgeons have been increasingly prescribing Arnica to promote rapid reduction of swelling and bruising.

Detailed Description

Perfect for use after cosmetic procedures or any physical trauma, Arnica Gel with Arnica Pellets reduce pain, swelling, and bruising.

What is Arnica?

Arnica is one of the most popular medicines in homeopathy, used by many people including mothers, infants, and athletes. It is commonly recommended by plastic surgeons around the world.

Arnica montana is the latin name for a perennia flowering plant. It is found on the moist, grassy upland meadows in the hills and mountains of northern and central Europe and Siberia. It is also found sparsely in the northwestern United States. Common name for Arnica are Leopard's Bane and Mountain Daisy. Arnica has been used for generations as a healing plant for bruises and tired muscles.

Why is Arnica the first choice for trauma and bruising?

Taken immediately after a wide range of traumas (including surgery), Arnica reduces pain, bruising, and swelling. For instance, the anti-inflammatory benefits of Arnica are well suited for potential swelling and bruising of liposuction.
